

Dear Client,

We would like to inform you that the upcoming Turkish General Election, which will take place on Sunday 24th of June 2018, will possibly lead to extreme market volatility, abnormal spreads and price gaps in many currencies, commodities and stock markets globally.

In light of the elections and in order to protect our clients and our Company from the anticipated market turbulence during this period, Forex24 Global will implement the following temporary measures:

On Friday the 22nd of June 2018, from 13:00 server time (GMT+3), the margin required for opening new positions and for maintaining existing positions will temporarily increase for the below instruments to:

2% (50:1 leverage) for USDTRY, EURTRY, GBPTRY and TRYJPY currency pairs.

Note: If your account leverage is 50:1 or less, your required margin will be unaffected and will remain the same.

This temporary measure will be completely waived for all positions and margin requirements will revert to normal (as per normal client account leverage settings) by Monday 25th of June 2018 at 13:00 server time (GMT+3).

Clients who intend to keep open positions during the upcoming Turkish Italian Election should ensure that their accounts are sufficiently funded to avoid any disturbances from possible margin calls and/or stop-outs in their trading activity.

Should you have any questions, do not hesitate to contact our Customer Support who is available 24/5.
